

17 MILLION MEALS

are missing in San Francisco county.

In San Francisco, 23% of the population is at risk of food insecurity. That's 183,000 people living below 200% of the Federal Poverty Level.

Collectively, they need 200 million meals throughout the year. Some of those meals they buy themselves, and others are provided by non-profit organizations and government assistance programs.

WHERE DO LOW-INCOME NEIGHBORS GET THEIR FOOD?

- Missing meals
- Meals provided by non-profits
- Meals provided by government
- Meals afforded with household income

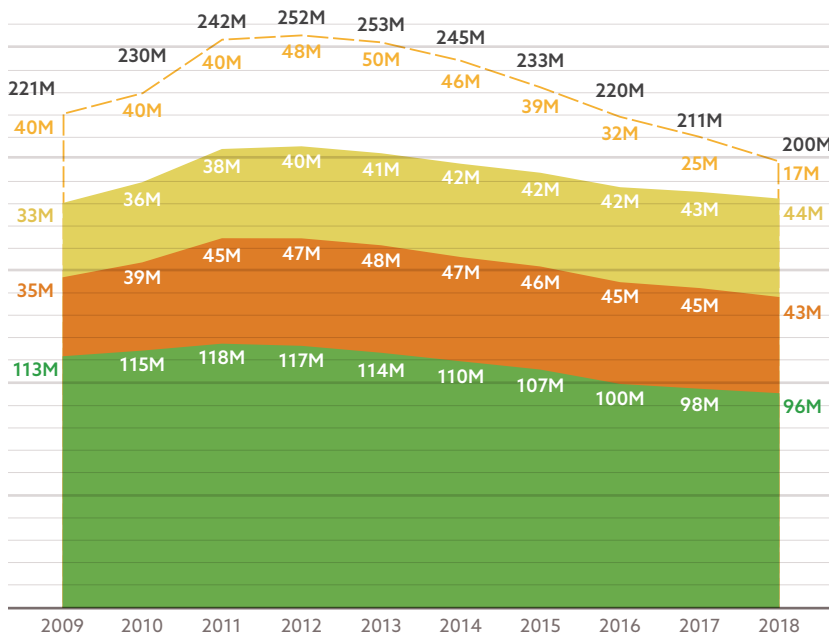

BUT EVEN WITH THIS HELP,

1 out of 9

MEALS IS STILL UNACCOUNTED FOR.

MISSING MEALS IN SAN FRANCISCO (Millions of Meals)

- Missing meals
- Meals provided by government
- Meals provided by non-profits
- Meals afforded with household income

Data from Missing Meals in San Francisco and Marin, 2020

TRENDS IN SAN FRANCISCO

2018 saw an overall reduction in the total number of meals needed due to a drop in the low-income population as the economy continued to improve.

As the cost of living in SF soared, the number of low-income people able to make it here continued to drop, and those who have remained are in deeper poverty with fewer resources to purchase food for themselves.

Government and non-profit assistance continued to increase, combining to fill over 40 percent of the total needed meals.

There are still 17 million meals missing in San Francisco, and we have work to do to close the meal gap.

